Website It is beneficial for travelers to review the cancellation policy for Holland America cruises before booking a flight. Booking a cruise is no small task. Passengers often save years in order to make a dream cruise to an exotic area. Then there's the time factor involved in studying cruise lines, examining cabins and finding an acceptable price. Once all the time and energy pushes out to secure a place on the cruise, having to cancel a trip can be a hectic task. Unfortunately, life is full of unexpected surprises. Sometimes, for whatever reason, whether it's poor health, family emergencies or work commitments, you're forced to cancel your fancy cruise. Similar articles like all major cruise companies, Holland America has a strict cancellation policy that requires written notice of a passenger's decision to cancel an existing booking. The letter must be received by the head office of the company before the appropriate period, which is set when paying for the original cruise. All cancellation written letters must be sent to: Booking Control, Holland America Line Inc. 300 Elliott Ave. West Seattle, WA 98119 If you are concerned that your cancellation letter will not enter Holland America's corporate office in time, you can send it by fax at: 1-800-628-4855. If you choose to fax a cancellation letter, it's a good place to keep your fax confirmation, so you'll have a receipt for your efforts if they're called into question in the future. Fees Depending on when you send a written cancellation to Holland America, you may be charged for cancellations. As of July 2010, cancellation fees in Holland America are: up to 80 days prior to No penalty 60-79 days before departure: Deposit amount 35-59 days before departure: 50 percent interest total fare 20-34 days before departure: 75 percent of the total fare Less than 19 days before departure: 100 percent of the total fare or without refunds In the case of Holland America cruises, it is important to note that the cancellation fee cannot be applied to future bookings. All refunds made by Holland America apply to the passenger's credit card or to the travel agent if it has been used. Holland America is only responsible for returning the amounts actually received by the company. Holland America Plan protection against cancellation Fortunately, there are ways to protect your pocketbook if you are forced to cancel your cruise bookings. One of the best ways is to purchase travel insurance. The rules are designed to protect you from steep fines assessed when canceling sailing. If you're cruising from Holland America, you'll be offered a unique sort insurance plan. It's called the Repeal Protection Plan, and it's quite popular with passengers. Interestingly, Holland America offers the industry's only travel cancellation program that offers cash refunds for cancellations for any reason up to 24 hours before departure. The Standard Cancellation Protection Plan in Holland America allows cruisers to cancel for any reason up to 24 hours before departure and receive a refund of 80 percent of any applicable cancellation fees. Meanwhile, the Company's Platinum Protection Plan returns 90 percent of all applicable cancellation fees. Be sure to review Holland America's cruise cancellation policy before subscribe to any of the aforementioned cancellation protection plans. Prepare for the unexpected No one wants to consider what can go wrong to force the abolition of the dream vacation. However, it's good to be prepared about the occasion. With cruises, as resale of cancelled space is likely to result in us losing profits, the cancellation fee is due regardless of the passenger cabin resale. This is one reason why most travel experts are urged by cruisers to consider purchasing travel insurance, or if you book with Holland America Line, you may choose to invest in a company cancellation protection plan to save money due to unforeseen circumstances.
